Mulvehill Creek Wilderness Inn

Wilderness at it's best! Mulvehill Creek: It has it all!

What you always dreamed about Western Canada, it has it all: The majestic mountains, a mirrored lake, an nearly impenetrable forest, an effervescent creek, a breathtaking waterfall, birds and wildlife - all at your doorstep.

"When you leave the Highway, you should come into another world!" declare both, Cornelia and Rene Hueppi, who opened their Mulvehill Creek Wilderness Retreat 1996 - as an Inn and Bed & Breakfast for at most eighteen guests.

And you get just that feeling when you turn onto the steep one mile driveway (to-boggan run in winter) leading to this unique place. Suddenly the forest embraces you, the wind calms down, the "go all the time" of the highway is far behind you.

You pass several murmuring rivulets, unexpectedly the forest opens to Loon Bay and you overlook the north side of the 100 acres peninsula. The Bay is famous for fly fishing as the fish hides in the huge cedar stumps left after the flooding of the lake. An arrow leads you to the Bald Eagle Spit where the Mulvehill Creek meets the Upper Arrow Lake and you see the big birds fishing.

But first you follow the signs to the retreat, reenter the forest and arrive at a solid bridge over the Creek from where you should take a first look at the lowest part of the 300 ft waterfall.

Two left turns and you arrive at the traditional cedar home situated in a park like setting. Cornelia and Rene welcome you in the antique furnished office and show you around. Being tired from your trip you might just have a drink near the fireplace or on the sundeck while others loosen up their mussels at the pool or relax in the hot tub.

Conferences and Accommodation at The University of British Columbia

Located on Vancouver's beautiful Point Grey peninsula, The University of British Columbia is just a short drive from the airport or downtown Vancouver.

Conferences and Accommodation at UBC offers 47 newly renovated contemporary one-bedroom suites year-round in the West Coast Suites and over 3,000 affordable guest rooms from May to August.

Our range of accommodations include single and twin dormitory-style rooms in the Pacific Spirit Hostel, shared apartments with spectacular ocean and mountain views, to fully-equipped private studio and one-bedroom suites.

Room rates start from $29.00 CAD for Singles, $79.00 CAD for Suites. With so many properties to choose from, you're sure to find one to suit your needs and budget.

Laundry facilities and parking are available on site. Beaches and trails, convenience stores, cafeterias, restaurants, pubs, free internet access terminals, some of Vancouver's top attractions and recreational facilities are located within walking distance of our residences.

The University Golf Club is only minutes from our accommodation by car or by bus.

UBC is the second largest commuter destination in the region after downtown Vancouver. Eleven different bus routes serve the campus from various points in and around Vancouver, making public transit one of the easiest and most budget-friendly ways to see Vancouver.

We invite you to come and experience the unique and resort-like setting at UBC!
